

A PRIVATE DECISION GUIDE

Is This Programme Right for You?

A plain-English guide for Malaysian managers who want to make a better next move - without stepping away from work.

What you will get

A clear view of the programme, the CMI-recognised certificate stage, the separate Chartered Manager route, time commitment and the questions to ask before you enquire.

Use this guide to decide whether the programme fits the responsibility you carry now - not just the title you would like next.

Future Ready Executive MBA is a professional development programme. It is not an MQA-accredited academic degree or a regulated qualification.

Start with the work you already carry.

The programme is designed for business owners, directors, general managers and senior managers who need a more structured way to examine decisions, test assumptions and move an important business issue forward.

Months 1-3

Six training days across three monthly sessions, coaching and an applied business project lead to the CMI-recognised Executive MBA programme certificate.

Months 4-6

Eligible participants receive preparation support for CMI's separate Chartered Manager assessment. CMI decides the route, eligibility and outcome. CMgr MCMI is not automatic.

A good fit if you:

- already make decisions that affect people, operations or business performance
- can bring a live business challenge into the learning
- want applied management development rather than a traditional academic MBA
- can protect time for three scheduled monthly sessions and project work

What it is not: a university degree, an MQA-accredited academic MBA, a promise of promotion, or an automatic Chartered Manager award.

Ask these before you apply.

1. Is the work relevant? Choose a current decision, constraint or opportunity that matters to your role or business.

2. Is the schedule workable? The certificate stage uses three monthly sessions. Review the published cohort dates against your responsibilities.

3. Do you need employer support? If funding or sponsorship matters, ask for the employer conversation and HRD Corp briefing before your company applies.

4. Are you evaluating scholarship eligibility? The RM5,000.00 LIFE Innoversity scholarship is for eligible Malaysian applicants only, subject to availability, assessment and written approval.
