What you'll get

A clear view of the programme, the CMI-recognised certificate, the separate Chartered Manager route, the real time commitment, how it compares to an academic MBA, and the questions worth asking before you enquire.

Made for the decision you're facing now.

Use this to judge whether the programme fits the responsibility you already carry.

The Future Ready Executive MBA is a professional development programme recognised by CMI (UK). It is not an MQA-accredited academic degree or a regulated qualification.

What this programme actually is.

This is applied management development for experienced, working managers. You bring a live business challenge, use structured frameworks to test your assumptions and options, and complete a real project on your own work — not a case study.

Six-month shape

Six training days across three scheduled sessions, coaching and an applied project, completed across the full six months while you keep working.

On completion

Participants who meet the requirements receive the CMI-recognised Executive MBA programme certificate. Chartered Manager remains a separate, optional CMI route.

The method

The F.A.S.T. approach and twelve management frameworks give you a repeatable way to define a problem, weigh options and turn a decision into an action plan.

A good fit if you

- already make decisions that affect people, operations or business performance
- can bring a live business challenge into the learning
- want applied development rather than a traditional academic MBA
- can protect time for three scheduled sessions, coaching and project work across six months

What it is not: a university degree, an MQA-accredited academic MBA, a promise of promotion, or an automatic Chartered Manager award.

This programme vs a traditional MBA.

Aspect	This programme	A traditional academic MBA
Time	Six months, alongside full-time work	18–24 months
What you build	Judgment on your own live business issue, plus reusable frameworks	Academic theory, research and case analysis
Assessment	One applied business project — no exams, no thesis	Assignments or exams, plus a dissertation
Who teaches	Industry practitioners, consultants and executive coaches	Academic faculty and research supervisors
Format	Three scheduled sessions across six months; keep working	A set academic calendar
Credential	CMI (UK)-recognised programme certificate	An academic MBA degree

This table describes a reference academic MBA of 18–24 months built around academic modules and a dissertation. It does not describe every MBA programme.

Four questions to ask before you enquire.

1. Is the work relevant?

Pick a current decision, constraint or opportunity that genuinely matters to your role or business — that becomes your project.

2. Is the schedule workable?

The six months run across three scheduled sessions plus coaching and project work. Check the published cohort dates against your responsibilities.

3. Do you need employer support?

If funding or sponsorship matters, ask for the employer conversation and the HRD Corp briefing before your company applies.

4. Are you exploring the scholarship?

LIFE Innoversity scholarships are limited and awarded on a selective basis to eligible Malaysian applicants, following individual assessment and written approval. Any award and resulting participant fee are confirmed individually in writing. They are never automatic.

Common questions.

Is this a real MBA?

It is an Executive MBA programme recognised by CMI (UK) against CMI Professional Standards. It is professional development, not an MQA-accredited academic degree.

Will I become a Chartered Manager?

Not automatically. On completion you receive the CMI certificate; Chartered Manager is a separate, optional CMI route with its own eligibility, assessment and fees, decided by CMI.

Can I do it while working full-time?

Yes — it is built for working managers: three scheduled sessions across six months, with an applied project on your own work. No exams, no thesis.
