

The Working Manager's Guide

Everything to check before you decide: how the three-month, CMI (UK)-recognised Executive MBA runs, the published 2026 dates, the programme fee, and how scholarship assessment works.

Dear working manager,

Thank you for requesting this guide. The fact that you are reading it says something already: your responsibilities have grown, and you want to meet them with better tools — without stepping away from the work.

This guide gives you the facts we believe you should check before speaking with anyone. How the three months actually run. What the twelve modules cover. What the CMI (UK) recognition means — and, just as importantly, what it does not. The published 2026 dates, the exact programme fee, and how the scholarship assessment works.

Nothing in these pages asks for a commitment. Compare this programme honestly against your alternatives, including doing nothing. If it fits the responsibility you carry now, you will see it in the detail. And when you are ready — or if anything is unclear — my team and I are one conversation away.

NO COMMITMENT

Free guide. No payment, no enrolment commitment, no obligation to speak with the team.

Three months, alongside the job.

The Future Ready Executive MBA is a professional development programme for working leaders, approved and endorsed by CMI (UK) against its Professional Standard. It runs for three months — one training weekend a month — and is built around a live project inside your own organisation.

3 MONTHS	3 WEEKEND SESSIONS	6 TRAINING DAYS	12 APPLIED MODULES	1 LIVE BUSINESS PROJECT
--------------------	---------------------------------	---------------------------	---------------------------------	--------------------------------------

Who it is for

Working managers whose role has outgrown their toolkit and who need to carry bigger decisions with confidence.

SME owners & founders building the systems that reduce owner dependence.

Employer-sponsored talent being developed for wider responsibility, individually or as a management cohort.

Mandarin cohorts run in parallel for Chinese-speaking leaders.

What you leave with

A CMI-recognised Executive MBA programme certificate, awarded on completion of the programme requirements.

A transformation plan for your own business, developed through the applied project and reviewed by faculty.

A repeatable decision method — F.A.S.T. — practised on your real issues, not case studies.

No traditional examinations. No thesis. No time out of the business.

Said plainly: this is a professional development programme, not an MQA-accredited academic degree or a regulated qualification. If your objective requires an academic degree, choose an academic MBA. If your objective is applied management development while you keep working, this programme was designed for exactly that.

01 • FIND THE REAL PROBLEM

Separate the visible symptom from the decision that actually matters.

02 • MAKE THE CASE

Test assumptions, compare options and explain the reasoning behind your recommendation.

03 • MOVE INTO ACTION

Turn the decision into a practical plan built around your own organisational context.

One weekend a month. One live issue throughout.

Each month pairs a facilitated training weekend with coaching and applied work on a business issue you bring from your own organisation.

Month 1

FRAME

Workshop-based learning

Two facilitated training days. You learn the F.A.S.T. decision method, complete a personal leadership diagnostic, and define the critical business issue your project will address.

DEVELOP

Coaching-based learning

The second training weekend deepens the twelve modules while one-to-one coaching pressure-tests your analysis, assumptions and options against your real organisational context.

Month 3

DELIVER

Project-based learning

The final weekend and the capstone: you present a transformation plan for your own organisation, reviewed by faculty. Complete the requirements and you receive the CMI-recognised programme certificate.

The method: F.A.S.T.

Framework Adaptive Systems Thinking brings seven thinking disciplines — systems, first-principles, design, structural, perspective, strategic and people — into one repeatable process: from a well-framed question to a decision you can defend, to a plan you can act on.

Attendance, honestly

Sessions run 9am–6pm on scheduled weekends. If you cannot attend a session, the team arranges how you catch up — discuss the calendar before you decide, not after.

Twelve modules, three stages of value.

Creating value, delivering value, capturing value — in that order. Every module is applied to the live issue you bring from your own business.

M01

F.A.S.T. structured decision method

M02

Identify the value customers need

M03

The capstone

An applied project built on a real challenge in your own organisation. You leave with a transformation plan reviewed by faculty — work your business keeps, whatever you decide next.

What the CMI recognition means — and what it doesn't.

What you receive

CMI (UK) has approved and endorsed this programme against its Professional Standard and awards the CMI Certificate of Recognition to successful participants.

The certificate documents completion of management and leadership development recognised against CMI's Professional Standard, and can be listed on a professional profile.

It does not guarantee promotion, employment, salary progression or any other career outcome.

Is this a degree?

No. This is a professional development programme. It is not an MQA-accredited academic degree or a regulated qualification.

That boundary is part of the value: three months of applied development instead of 18–24 months of academic modules, assignments and a dissertation.

Chartered Manager (CMgr MCMI): a separate, optional CMI route with its own eligibility, assessment and fees, decided entirely by CMI. It is not included in the published Executive MBA programme or fee, and completing the programme does not make you a Chartered Manager. If Chartered status is your goal, raise it in your programme conversation and the team will explain CMI's current routes.

Verify the recognition independently: CMI (UK) publishes its recognised-centre register at managers.org.uk.

Choose a cohort that fits your calendar.

Every cohort covers the full three-month programme across three scheduled weekends, 9am–6pm. Earlier 2026 cohorts have already commenced; the calendar below covers the remaining intakes of the year. The website carries the live calendar — confirm availability with the programme team before planning around a date.

COHORT	LANGUAGE	SESSION 1	SESSION 2	SESSION 3	DAYS
Cohort 2	Mandarin	4–5 Sep	9–10 Oct	6–7 Nov	Fri–Sat
Cohort 18	English	25–26 Sep	23–24 Oct	13–14 Nov	Fri–Sat
Cohort 19	English	30–31 Oct	20–21 Nov	4–5 Dec	Fri–Sat
Cohort 3	Mandarin	30–31 Oct	20–21 Nov	4–5 Dec	Fri–Sat

One weekend a month

Three sessions, a month apart, so the applied work happens inside your business between weekends — that spacing is the design, not a compromise.

If a date is a problem

Discuss the calendar with the programme team before you decide. A fully online cohort also runs for participants joining from outside Malaysia.

One published fee. No surprises.

STANDARD FEE

RM10,000

- Six training days across three live weekend sessions
- Personal leadership diagnostic
- One-to-one coaching through the applied project
- Learning management system access
- Applied business project with faculty review
- CMI-recognised programme certificate on completion of requirements

Payment options

RHB credit-card instalments over 6–12 months, or a four-month payment plan. Refund terms are defined in ABC's signed enrolment terms, which you receive and review before any payment.

Employer funding

Employer funding may be available to eligible HRD Corp-registered employers, subject to HRD Corp approval and the approved amount. The employer submits the grant application before training begins — the programme team supplies every supporting document.

The RM5,000 LIFE Innoversity scholarship — how it actually works. Eligible Malaysian applicants may qualify for a RM5,000.00 scholarship, bringing the fee to RM5,000.00. There is no published checklist to score yourself against: eligibility and availability are assessed individually, in conversation, and an award exists only once it is confirmed in writing — it is never automatic, and nationality alone does not qualify you. If the scholarship matters to your decision, raise it first in your programme conversation.

Four money questions worth asking — of us, or of any programme

1 • "What exactly does the published fee include — and what is charged separately?"

2 • "What are the written refund terms, and when do I receive them?"

3 • "If my employer applies for HRD Corp funding, what must be submitted before training begins?"

4 • "How is scholarship eligibility assessed, and when is an award actually confirmed?"

Start with a conversation. Decide in your own time.

There is no application form to survive and no payment to make. Choose whichever next step suits you.

TALK IT THROUGH

Arrange a programme conversation — a short call, an online information meeting, or an in-person meeting at an agreed location. Fit first; enrolment only if it makes sense.

MESSAGE FIRST

Chat with the programme team on WhatsApp for quick questions about dates, fees, the scholarship assessment or employer funding.
